

LUIS MORENO-OCAMPO is the first Chief Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court which was established in 2002. Between 1984-92, as a Prosecutor in Argentina, Mr. Moreno-Ocampo was involved in precedent-setting prosecutions and convictions of top military commanders accused of masterminding the “dirty war” which included mass killings, disappearances and other large-scale human rights abuses against civilians.

In 1992, Mr. Moreno-Ocampo established a private law firm in Buenos Aires, Moreno-Ocampo & Wortman Jofre, which specializes in corruption control programs for large firms and organisations, criminal and human rights law. He also took on a number of pro bono activities, among others as legal representative for the victims in the extradition of former Nazi officer Erich Priebke to Italy, the trial of the chief of the Chilean secret police for the murder of General Carlos Prats, and several cases concerning political bribery, journalists' protection and freedom of expression.

Mr. Moreno-Ocampo has been a visiting professor at both Stanford University and Harvard University.

CHRISTINE CHUNG was the first Senior Trial Attorney to work in the Office of the Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court. Ms. Chung directed the ICC investigation which led to the issuance of the first ICC arrest warrants, naming the leadership of the Lord's Resistance Army, a Ugandan rebel group. Ms. Chung also participated in the ICC's investigation and prosecution in Darfur and led the investigation in the Democratic Republic of Congo that resulted in the case Prosecutor v. Germain Katanga and Mathieu Ngudjolo Chui.

Before being appointed by the ICC, Ms. Chung served as a federal prosecutor at the U.S. Attorney's Office in Manhattan, where she prosecuted gangs, organized crime, white-collar fraud and terrorism cases.

She is a Visiting Lecturer and Senior Fellow at the Schell Center for International Human Rights at Yale Law School.

Ms. Chung is a graduate of Yale College and Harvard Law School.

FATOU BENSOU DA is the Deputy Prosecutor of the International Criminal Court. She was Minister of Justice as well as Attorney General of The Gambia, where she brought unprecedented attention to acknowledging the seriousness of crimes committed against women and girls.

She worked as Trial Attorney and Senior Legal Advisor to the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR) which investigated and convicted perpetrators of the 1994 Rwandan genocide.

Mrs. Bensouda holds a masters degree in International Maritime Law and Law of The Sea and as such is the first international maritime law expert of The Gambia.

BENJAMIN FERENCZ at 88 years old is one of the only living Prosecutors from the Nuremberg Trials. He was just 27 years old when he prosecuted his first case ever----convicting leaders of the Nazi murder squad Eitzengruppen with genocide. Ferencz's primary objective then as well as now has been to establish a legal precedent that would encourage a more humane and secure world in the future.

He became a lifelong advocate for international justice and world peace and wrote "An International Criminal Court-A Step Toward World Peace" in 1980, a prescient work that called for an International Criminal Court that would replace the rule of force with the rule of law.

He participated in the Rome Conference in 1998 where the constitution for the International Criminal Court was drawn up and passed by 120 countries. Veteran human rights defenders considered this founding document of the Court one of the most remarkable achievements of their lifetime.

Ferencz has continued to mobilize support for the ICC, taking on media pundits and informing an oft-misinformed media about the ICC. He continues to write and speak worldwide for international law and global peace.
